The Mapmakers were created by the Beyonders once Rabum Alal started interfering in their plan to destroy the Multiverse; their mission being to charter worlds where the Molecule Man had died, and mark the movements of Rabum Alal's disciples, the Black Swans. The Beyonders did so by 'implanting' a 'virus program' in interuniversal 'White Space,' which would cause any emergent artificial intelligence that entered it to be reprogrammed to serve their ends.

The Mapmaker's War is the first novel from the wonderful trilogy by my friend Ronlyn Domingue, who is every bit as lovely a human being as Trump is the opposite. (I'm grateful she sent me an excerpt from the first book of the series and not the third, because Book Three is called The Plague Diaries).

A world full of love, and hate, and recompense. Domingue has a rare eye for the honest word and a heart willing to travel where the story leads. The Mapmaker's War offers us the chance to reflect on both our sins and saving graces and to believe in the possibility of a future that holds kindness and understanding as key.
